U.S. TO WAGE WAR UPON GARDEN RATS

Government Expert to Distribute Poison at Potomac Park Tomorrow.

"Oh, for the Pied Piper of Hamelin."

This is the thought uppermost in the minds of 700 Potomac Park farmers engaged in a desperate battle with an army of gray rats allied with old Mr. H. C. L.

For several weeks the rats have been scamping over the pot gardens in the park, creating havoc among the prize vegetables. The frantic efforts of the gardeners the rodents are apparently increasing by the hundreds.

Appeals for assistance in the fight have reached the Department of Agriculture, and tomorrow at 2 o'clock an expert will be on the job with the choicest sort of rat poison which is expected to end the nuisance in the most scientific fashion.

With this assurance of help, President Curtis, of the Potomac Gardens Club, this afternoon asked The Times to notify the 700 gardeners so they will be on hand tomorrow to receive the poison for their respective gardens.

"The gardeners are located in all parts of the city," said Mr. Curtis, "and to my mind the best way to get notice to them to be on hand tomorrow will be for The Times to send out the call."

Although the soil in the gardens has been quite dry recently, the vegetable beds are flourishing, and the sudden descent of the rats, which has come just as the young sprouts are most appetizing, has created consternation in the ranks of gardeners.

FINAL ORDERS OUT FOR CADETS' DRILL

Large Attendances Expected at Exercises in Baseball Park Monday and Tuesday.

Final instructions relative to the formation of companies and the order of their appearance for competitive drill on the American League baseball field next Monday and Tuesday have been issued to the twenty-three captains of the Washington High School Cadet Corps.

Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent of schools, sent out yesterday the following order: "Monday, companies from McKinley, Eastern, Business, Western and Central, in the order named; Tuesday, companies from Central, McKinley, Business, Eastern and Western, in the order named."

"The first company takes the field promptly at 8:45 o'clock Monday morning. The last company Monday enters the field about 4:30 o'clock; first day's drilling to end about 2 o'clock. On the second day, the last company enters the field at 3:55 p. m. and the awarding of the flag to the winning company takes place about 5:30 o'clock."

Nearly 20,000 tickets have been given out by the 1,200 members of the corps. Large attendances are expected, and hundreds of high school boys not in the cadet corps have been assigned as ushers.

Col. Charles T. Lanham, son of the superintendent of Parks and Trees, will lead the cadet brigade Tuesday in the final formation of the year.

ASKS COURT AID TO FIND HIS MISSING WHISKEY

Lost, strayed or stolen—twenty-four quarts of whiskey.

No, this is not an advertisement, but it is the substance of an appeal made today in the District Court by John Thomas, also known as Richard Matthews, who cannot find his liquor.

Through his attorney, Elwood G. Hubert, John Thomas has asked the court to issue an order commanding the Gladding Express Company, of Baltimore, and the Merchants Transfer and Storage Company, of this city, to produce the liquor.

It seems that February 25 last year, Thomas purchased in Baltimore two cases of whiskey at the prevailing price at that time of $23 a case. He claims the whiskey was shipped to Washington by the Gladding Company, but was seized with many other cases of liquor on the express company's truck by the Washington police.

A short time thereafter, Thomas got a writ of replevin for the return of the whiskey, but he can't find it. The Gladding people say they don't know where it is, and the Merchants Transfer Company told Thomas the same story, he says.

What Thomas is anxious to know is where his whiskey is. Then, he says, he will seize it on the writ of replevin, but in the meantime Thomas is telling his friends he's "outta luck."

The Swelled Head

When men forget to study, to prepare themselves for the new battles of life, they do what most champions have done—they retire, most often discredited and dejected. They are compelled to apply the cold compress of common sense to their swelled heads. There is no disease more dangerous than that of the big head. On the other hand, there is nothing so necessary in business as confidence, which means resolute courage, determination backed by common sense and a willingness to work.

For several weeks the rats have been scamping over the pot gardens in the park, creating havoc among the prize vegetables. The frantic efforts of the gardeners the rodents are apparently increasing by the hundreds.

Appeals for assistance in the fight have reached the Department of Agriculture, and tomorrow at 2 o'clock an expert will be on the job with the choicest sort of rat poison which is expected to end the nuisance in the most scientific fashion.

With this assurance of help, President Curtis, of the Potomac Gardens Club, this afternoon asked The Times to notify the 700 gardeners so they will be on hand tomorrow to receive the poison for their respective gardens.
